legend...

In the heart of a youth there was born one day a vision. For weeks it was only a dream—the dream of a brilliant future in the hands of a learned man. But between that man and the youth there hung a darkness that his eye could not penetrate. In patience he waited—until the blackness, pierced by a ray of hope, parted and there opened before him a door—a door to a Christian College. The youth left his plow to enter its portals, and there he mingled with others from the hills and the valleys, the office, and the schoolroom. Scarce had he found his place in their midst, 'ere a shovel was thrust into his hand, and under the watchful eye of the masters he began to dig in the earth. For firm must be the foundation they said or the structure will will not endure. Thus the youth labored through the winter and on until the spring and the time of flowers. Deep down to the rock he dug and there he laid for himself a foundation.

About thirty-five years ago a group of leaders of the Mennonite Church, endowed with the spirit of progress that is the life-blood of any live organization, conceived and brought forth a new institution of higher learning, to be known as Goshen College. Founded upon the high ideals and rich tradition of Mennonite history, the college began at once to have a definite influence for good in the lives of the young people who took advantage of her opportunities. As time went on, the institution grew in size and scope of influence. The difficulties, reverses, and defeats of this early period were many. The leaders of the movement, being only human. erred, and at times lesser things impeded progress. But finally Christian courage and true faith endured. Today Goshen College wields a far-reaching influence for good in the Mennonite Church, in the community, and indirectly, in whatever communities those, who have been associated with her, live. Goshen College boasts no million dollar building program, no acres of shady campus area, no reputation as a contender in intercollegiate sports, and no expensive buildings or equipment. Not that some of these things would not be desirable, but her aims have been higher than these. Her motto, ""Culture for Service," is evidence of the fact that she has always clung to a policy of "first things first." It is this policy which has made it possible for her to wield such a positive influence for Christian living. Her glories are not seen emblazoned in the headlines, but rather in those lives which have responded to her influence--Richard Blosser . . . The junior class entertained the freshman class at a party held in the gymnasium on Friday evening, September 16. About ninety members of the classes enjoyed the evening playing games and getting acquainted . . . On Thursday evening the Freshman class presented the after dinner program in the dining hall consisting of a piano solo by Elinor Smith, a reading by Lena Custer, and two members by a men's quartet_Ernest Miller, Richard Yoder, Dwight Yoder. and William Friesen . . . Dim light, warmth, cheer, easy chairs_an indescribable silence, then each mind drifted home__East or West. Suddenly the beautiful strains "Minuet in G" brought us back to experience with Beethoven his "Romance in F," "Moonlight Sonata," "Selections from Fifth Symphony," one "Selection from the Seventh Symphony." Varied themes, color, and moods, ranging from the tender touch of the "Moonlight Sonata" to the dashing color of the "Seventh Symphony" took us into realms of sheer delight. The last sweet strains faded into nothingness;

legend...

Summer passed and autumn with the open door again called him from the fields. Back to his work with hammer and steel he came with new strength. It was well, for masses of metal awaited his shaping; great girders must now be swung into place. The time came when the structure was tried by the tests of those who sought to instruct him. The vision grew and almost faded for the glamour of the untried had vanished long since. The goal of his striving was yet far from his grasp and he might have failed had he not remembered that the instructor had said that a constant following of the plan was essential in the building of a beautiful structure. So he kept at his work and ere long great iron beams were seen rising upward toward the blueness above.

"Bunny" couldn't understand why the stars are more easily seen when on the ice, and asked Professor Lehman to explain to her . . . Welcome news this ought to be to all Elementary Education students. Gladys Schertz is planning, in addition to teaching, to invent a new kind of hectograph ink which is permanent on paper but temporary on fingers . . . In answer to a question in Birds class as to whether she had the prism binoculars, Delilah Miller said, "No is that a book?" Said a designing senior, "Yes." "Well," said Delilah, "I haven't read it." . . . There's something twisty about the sophomore girls on third floor of Kulp Hall. The Loop (Loyal Order of Pretzels) features anything from a Chinese dinner to an airplane feed . . . and occasionally peanuts and snowballs play their roles . . . Chili con carne, chop suey, come on Sophs, hop to-ee . . . This, the challenge from the side lines, started off the basket ball tournament with pep, vigor and spirit. Though this echoed and re-echoed until all had constriction of the throat, we hopped to-ee, and both the Sophomore men and women were champs of the basket ball tournament . . . Among soft lights and music and green and white streamers blowing in cool breeze the Sophomores had their first party in the Science Hall. We again renewed our class spirit and passed it on to our welcome new members . . . Another big feature of the year was a St. Patrick's party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Weaver. Gay green games, green refreshments, green people and a jolly good time pictures the evening.

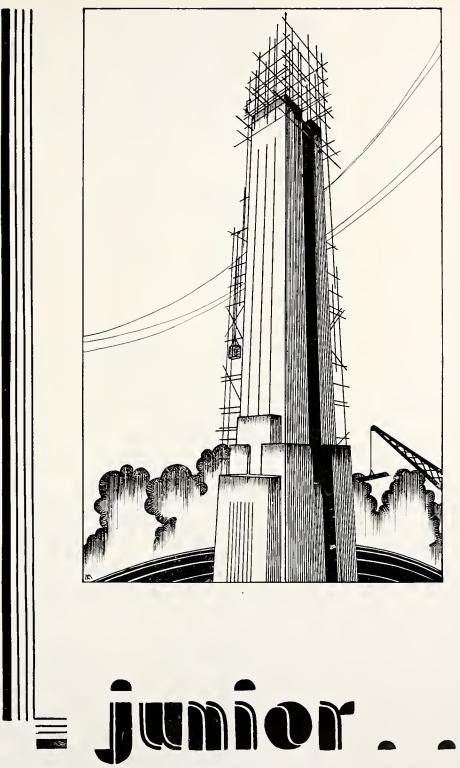

TO OUR CLASS

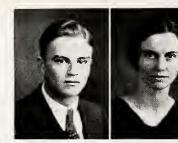

Conquering? yes, but yet to conquer
Each daily task, each burden thrust
Upon our shoulders squared
Against them; to gain the trust
Of all by whem we would be trusted;
To learn to love the right and hate the wrong
Despise a lie and reverence the true,
In all to honor God, our fellowman and self
And give to each what is his due.

legend...

Half of his work lay behind him but that only meant that half was yet to do. Together with his fellows he called on the splendid strength of his youth and with a resolute heart he shouldered the task. Deeper he drank at the springs of learning and the blood in his veins coursed with new vigor as he felt the increasing weight of responsibilities. His teachers with less of direction and more of suggestion now stood aside and he gained a greater trust in the Providence which he knew was shaping his course. Higher and higher toward completion rose the structure. But now once more he paused to gain new strength.

JUNIOR POETS

With due apologies to John Masefield:

I must go back to my home again, to my dear old friends and my work, And all I ask is an old car and some gas to make it purk, And the horn blows and the tires hum, and the curtains all a-flapping And a wide road and a good map and the town cops all a-napping.

__Ruth Hertzler

QUEST

Across a far mountain and through the night I'm searching a silver song. I heard it at dusk when the winds tripped light, And stars danced deep in a pool.

A song of great yearning, of hope, and pain, Climaxed by ecstatic joy.
It lingered—faded, and dark once again Kept quiet watch in the wood.

If I can but catch that eluding tune,
Which must be somewhere ahead,
I shall be kin to the wind and the moon,
An awed confidente of God.
__Dona Belle Hepler

ESTRANGEMENT

How strange, we talk, and sing the same each day; All seems the same, but yet our laugh is strained. You live, and yet your soul has fled away, And hid from me, and friendship now is feigned. In love and confidence our souls were trained, But now we walk togther, yet apart. I tried to warm the spark that still remained Of fellowship; you aided from the start. Vainly we battered at the wall before each heart.

Back for the last time came the youth to complete his work. He was now better prepared to complete the task for his vision was wider and the increasing height of the building compelled him to look higher. Deeper was his understanding of his fellows and more intense his love for the truth. Carefully now he worked and sure, that he might not fail at the last. A little longer he labored until structure and vision were one. A bit reluctant he was to stop now but the masters said that he had done his work well—and he was content. Years before he had dreamed and now had that dream come true for he had built him a building in the city of life. But tomorrow—he will keep on building.

The Bible school has been an important department of the work of Goshen College from the very beginning, instruction in Biblical subjects and training for specific Christian service having been one of the purposes of the founders. During the school year 1933-1934 an important forward step was taken in the work of the Bible School by the addition of a graduate department. During the year ten students who had completed a college course were enrolled in graduate courses. Four of these, together with two seniors, were enrolled as full-time students in the Bible School taking chiefly graduate work. A student organization known as "The Graduate Circle" was formed which had regular weekly meetings throughout the year. Wide interest has been aroused in the Graduate Bible course and it is probable that a course of graduate Bible study will become a permanent part of the work of the B'ble School.

Another important forward step has been the establishment of the Bachelor of Theology degree. This degree (Th. B.) is being offered this year for the first time and will be conferred upon five candidates at the June, 1934, commencement. It is a degree on a level with the Bachelor of Arts degree, requiring approximately one-half of the stardard 120 semester hours for the degree to be taken in the Bible department.

Winter Bible Term Faculty

For the coming year the undergraduate work of the Bible School is being reorganized into two new curricula in addition to the regular Bible major of twenty-four hours for the B. A. degree. A one-year course of Freshman college grade will be given for the specific purpose of training Sunday school teachers. The curriculum consists of thirty semester hours, and will be known as the "Standard Teacher Training Course." A diploma will be given for this course, which has the approval of the General Sunday School Committee of the Mennonite Church and is sponsored by it in a part of its teacher training program. Further, the regular two year undergraduate curriculum in the Bible School leading to a diploma has been reorganized and will be known henceforth as the "Christian Workers' Course." The work of this course will be of Freshman and Sophomore college grade. The work of the Winter Bible School is also being reorganized and the tentative program calls for a four-year cycle of courses to be offered in a nine-weeks term January and February of each year. This course also leads to a diploma.

Goshen College is wholeheartedly cooperating with the other Mennonite schools and colleges in an endeavor to develop standard Bible curricula of uniform content and length which can be offered at all of the church colleges and winter Bible schools. Graduate work and work above the Sophomore level will, however, be offered only at Goshen College.

In order to make it possible for worthy students of limited means to take advantage of the opportunities offered in the Bible School, no tuition is being charged to students enrolled in any regular curriculum in the Bible School. Other expenses are also materially reduced. This should make it possible for a greatly increased number of students to enroll for these courses and thus substantially extend the service rendered by Goshen College to her constituency.

The Graduate Circle

In view of the need of an organization on the campus around which the interests and activities of the students in the advanced Bible department of the college could be centered, a tentative organization was formed in September, 1933, which might be the basis for future organization as the work of the Bible department grows. This organization was named The Graduate Circle. Its membership was classified as: (1) regular members, those having graduated with a full B.-A. degree who are taking advanced Bible courses, and (2) assoc ate members, those who are seniors in college having a Bible major and who expect to continue in the advanced Bible department another year.

A chairman and secretary-treasurer comprise the officers, who, with two members of the faculty of the Bible school, form an executive committee to arrange for programs and to guide the activities of the Circle. The officers elected were: chairman, John E. Coffman; secretary-treasurer, Sarah Esch; Dean Bender and Professor G. H. Enss acting on the executive committee.

Some of the discussions at the regular weekly meetings during the year were on the relation between the graduate members of the Circle and the undergraduate organizations of the school, others were on the subject of developing a deeper Christian life and opportunities for actual Christian work in the surrounding communities, while another series of discussions was held on the various Confessions of Faith produced by the spiritual ancestors of the Mennonite Church.

Practical work was undertaken by the members in giving gospel programs and conducting religious surveys in neighboring communities.

Winter Bible Term

The 1934 Winter Bible Te:m opened on Wednesday, January 3, with the enrollment of thirty-six students who were willing to take advantage of the opportunity of more intensive Bible study, during a short period when they could more easily leave their home communities. Representatives from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, New York and Mexico were enrolled.

This year's class was better organized than any previous class had been. As a result of this organization, meetings were held and programs were sponsored. These meetings consisted of weekly devotional meetings, literary society meetings, prayer meetings, one regular Y. P. S. program, and a farewell meeting held at the close of the term in the Mission House at Elkhart, Indiana. Needless to say, they proved very valuable and beneficial.

This year, too, was the first for a number to have graduated from this course. A group of five students successfully completed the six-year curriculum. The Commencement address was given by C. F. Derstine, of Kitchener, Ontario.

Extension Bible Department

Goshen College is the servant of the Mennonite Church and is dedicated to the task of Christian Education. In addition to offering a standard college course and a thorough Bible Course designed to prepare Christian workers, Goshen College is attempting to meet the needs of its constituency through the Extension Department. The purpose of this department is to make the services of the college and Bible School available to all those who are unable to attend the regular sessions throughout the year.

The department has four different plans by which its services are brought to the church: 1. Extension Bible and Teacher Training Classes in churches near Goshen. 2. Sunday School Normals or Bible Conferences. 3. Bible and Teacher training Classes studying by correspondence. 4. Individual study of the Bible and Teacher Training courses by correspondence. During the past year a total of two hundred and eight persons was enrolled in extension classes in churches in the Goshen community; seventy-seven were enrolled in a Sunday School Normal and a total of thirty-one was enrolled in correspondence courses.

At the present time, the following subjects are being offered: Old Testament Law and History; Old Testament Poetry and Prophecy; New Testament Studies; Principles of Sunday School Teaching; A Study of the Pupil; Sunday School Administration. The Bible Courses are planned to get the student into direct contact with the Biblical material and thoroughly master it. The purpose of the other courses is to equip the Christian worker with a practical knowledge of the best principles and methods which have been found for effective teaching and efficient Sunday School administration. An effort is made to deepen the spiritual life of every student and inspire him to dedicate his life to serving Christ in his own church and community.

The completion of the six subjects stated above makes the student eligible for the Elementary Teacher Training Diploma which is issued by the General Sunday School Committee of the Mennonite Church. Other courses will be prepared and offered as there is a demand and the Extension Department will endeavor to meet the Christian Education needs of both the individual Christian worker and the local Mennonite Church.

Elementary Education Club

The work of the department of Education of Goshen College has made it possible for the college to help in satisfying the educational needs of an increasing number of the young people of the church and of the community.

In February, 1932, it became possible once more to give the regular two-year elementary teacher training course which had been offered in earlier years, but had more recently been discontinued. This course leads to a diploma, and to a license to teach in the elementary schools in practically any state where it is possible to teach with this amount of specialized training. Two students who partially completed the course previously, graduated in August 1932. Nineteen took their diplomas in 1933. At least an equal number will complete their work in 1934.

The professional courses in education for the elementary teachers are taught chiefly by Miss Mary Royer, who received her M. A. in education at George Peabody College for Teachers, after taking the B. A. at Goshen College. Miss Royer also was a successful elementary school teacher in Ohio for several years.

The more academic courses needed by the elementary school teachers in their preparation are taught by the instructors in the various departments in which courses are required. Instructors teaching such courses are Samuel Yoder, Arthur L. Sprunger, Walter E. Yoder, Dr. Glen R. Miller, Dr. Paul Bender, and Miss Olive Wyse.

The practical work in observation and in student teaching is being done in the schools of Elkhart County, and in the city of Goshen. During the present school year twenty-eight students received the necessary experience in actual class room teaching needed so that they may receive first grade teaching licenses in their respective states.

Summer School, 1933

The spring term of six weeks which began on Wednesday, April 26, 1933, was attended by twenty students. These students were largely teachers whose school year had been completed by this date. Dr. Walter E. Gordon, an alumnus of the college, and a teacher of wide experience, was brought in to assist in giving courses in education during this time.

The regular summer session of nine weeks opened on Thursday, June 8, and ended on Wednesday, August 9. There was a total enrollment of 75 different students during the spring and summer. For the regular nine weeks of the summer session nine faculty members taught classes in biological science, physical science, English, German, education, psychology, music and mathematics. Six of the teaching staff taught full time, the remaining three teaching only part time.

Extra-curricular activities were cared for by the election of appropriate student officers. Levi C. Hartzler was elected chairman of the group, with Nettie Glick, as secretary-treasurer. Committees were appointed to supervise the activities in such fields as social life, athletics, literary work and religious life. One extended field trip for the whole school, took the group on July 14th to Milse's nursery and bird refuge, the Kankakee state game reserve and the Bass Lake state fish hatchery. The trip was sponsored by the biological science department, but the whole student body accompanied the classes in this department.

Elkhart Branch

Paul Bender

With the opening of the current school year there was organized in Elkhart a division of the Freshman class known as the Elkhart Branch of Goshen College. This work was designed to furnish an opportunity for regular college training to those high school graduates of Elkhart who found it impossible to go away to school. The interest taken in the project by the Secretary of the Elkhart Y. M. C. A., Mr. L. V. Swartzendrover, and the class-room facilities supplied by the Y. M. C. A. made this work possible.

A standard Freshman course was given with a well balanced list of subjects. The classes were taught by regular members of the Goshen College faculty. The recitations were conducted in rooms on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. building in the forenoons of the five school days of the week. The Chemistry students came to Goshen for laboratory work in the Goshen College laboratories, spending one afternoon a week on the campus during the first semester, and two afternoons during the second semester. A total of fifteen students was enrolled in the Elkhart Branch. Some of these students plan to enter one or the other of the professions, while others are attending college for what it may have to offer them.

Young Men's Christian Association

OSHEN COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. is organized to foster spiritual life on the campus and to help spread the Gospel wherever possible. The association provides for weekly Devotional Meetings, Mission Study classes, Bible Study groups and Prayer Meetings. During the annual evangelistic services, prayer groups convene daily. In addition to providing for the spiritual development of the students an effort is made to witness for Christ off the campus. Weekly gospel services are held in the jail, student programs are given in the churches of the community and groups are sent on extensive tours to speak and sing for Christ in our churches. In cooperation with the Y. W. C. A., an annual financial drive is held for the support of our missionaries in South America and India. Besides the spiritual work, an effort is also made to help needy students find part-time employment. Socials are sponsored to help provide for the full development of personality. The Y. M. C. A. does not exist simply as one of a great number of organizations, each of which interests a group of students, but solicits the active support of all Christian students and tries to help everyone.

Young Women's Christian Association

THE activities of the Young Women's Christian Association are governed by the motto of the organization, "To know Christ, and to make Him known," It is our desire that each girl at Goshen College might truly learn to know Christ and that she may grow in her spiritual life and in her fellowship with God. We further desire that each girl having first come to know Christ might have opportunity to make Him known. By God's grace the various committees endeavor to carry out these aims by sponsoring the following activities: weekly prayer meetings and devotionals, mission study and Bible study classes, opportunities for practical work through extension programs, and various social gatherings and activities. Through this organization we aspire to serve our college and our Lord, to the best of our ability.

Christian Workers' Band

Levi Hartzler _____President
Helen Oesch ______Secretary

THE Christian Workers Band is an organization for all those interested in laboring for the Master in a more effective and effecient way. The meetings of the Band were held regularly throughout the year, every alternate Sunday morning at 6:30. It was in these early morning meetings that we enjoyed a closer fellowship with each other. The abiding presence of our Lord was felt and communion with him was indeed sweet.

The topics for study were taken from the subject "The Qualifications of the Christian Worker" We also studied the lives of great personal soul winners who so earnestly labored in the field of Christian service that lost souls might be saved.

We were fortunate in having members of the faculty and visiting ministers speak to us. These messages were inspirational and practical, and were a great challenge for all who have a passion for souls yet unsaved and who earnestly seek to win them for Christ.

May these hours of preparation instil in each one an even greater concern for the lost and make us more zealous to bring them to the light. Forty-one student members in the Band with the same purpose in mind, laboring for the same Master and with the same goal in view can be one strong factor in "Evangelizing the World."

Foreign Volunteer Band

Carolyn Lehman	President
Elva Gunden	Secretary

A S members of the Foreign Volunteer Band we have found the early Sunday morning hours very conducive to study and worship. Together we have met as a group of students sharing a deep devotion to a common cause, which has resulted in a great enrichment of life. This past year the Band consisted of an enrollment of thirty-six members, nineteen of whom, having felt a call to foreign mission work, were listed as regular members. Seventeen, though not definitely decided, yet holding a deep interest in the work, were included as associate members.

Realizing that a confident dependence on God, realistic thinking, a concern for the world task of the church, depth of conviction and purpose, and unity of heart and mind were fundamental to a year of successful work, the band has tried to encourage the following:

First, that its members receive the best training possible for missionary service; second, that they persevere in the carrying out of their missionary purpose; third, that they share continually their missionary interest and knowledge with fellow students in order to win other volunteers and to build up among individuals that ininterest in the missionary cause which is necessary to its maintenance and advance; and fourth, that they might be diligent in Bib'e study, devotional reading, and prayer as essential preparation for missionary service.

"Go ye, therefore and teach all nations." Never before have we been given a greater task and it is our prayer that we may not be found lacking.

. . . Carolyn Lehman

Gospel Deputation Teams

Two groups of students again had the much-appreciated privilege of going out on extension tours during Christmas vacation. These tours serve a three-fold purpose. In the first place they furnish an opportunity for those who go out to become acquainted with the congregations of our constituency in their places of worship, and at the same time make possible many personal contacts with the ministers, church workers, and others in these congregations. In the second place they provide an opportunity for the congregations to become better acquainted with the activities of the church school which they are supporting. Last, but by no means least, they provide an opportunity for those who go out to give their testimony in witnessing for Jesus Christ.

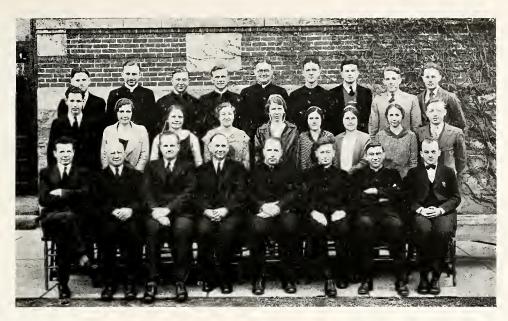

Of the two groups that went out this year, one went west through Northern Illinois and Central Iowa, and visited two congregations in Nebraska. The other groups toured Central Illinois and Indiana. Those who went out on these tours found the experience enjoyable and helpful in their Christian lives. The contacts which were made, the fellowship which was enjoyed, and the blessings which were received through the giving of a testimony for Jesus Christ leave memories which will not soon be forgotten.

The Extension Sunday School

The East Goshen Sunday School is dear to the hearts of many students because it represents a field of service for the Master. The purpose of the Sunday School is to lead souls to Christ and to intsruct them more fully in the ways of righteousness. It also provides a place of worship for many children who do not have a regular place of attendance. Many of the children and some of the parents are brought to Sunday School by the students in their cars. Other students pass out the "Youth's Christian Companion" on regular paper routes. We are grateful to the local school board for the use of the school house in which the Sunday School is held, and to the principal of the school for his fine cooperation.

The Mennonite Historical Society enrolls in its membership faculty and students who are interested in Mennonite History and who wish to support a practical program of activity in this field. A Board of Directors of twelve members, four of whom must be students, carry on the business of the Society, subject to the annual business meeting of the entire membership. On the campus the Society provides several public programs during the school year at which addresses and papers in the field of Mennonite History are given. It also sponsors the Mennonite Historical Library and devotes most of its regular income to the purchase of materials for the library. A peace committee appointed by the Society promotes interest in Mennonite peace principles on the campus. The Society is also engaged in practical activities of a larger scope, particularly in the field of publication. It acts as publishing agent for the college in the publication of the "Mennonite Quarterly Review," and publishes a series of scholarly publications entitled, "Studies in Anabaptist and Mennonite History."

Music at Goshen College

Walter Yoder

It would be difficult to set forth the importance of music in the life of Goshen College. Every student should have some knowledge and experience in the fine arts of music, painting, sculpture, and poetry. Of these none has a more universal influence and power in shaping and moulding character than music, and none is better able to impart the finest cultural values. Each individual has his own gift in the field of the fine arts and the music department of Goshen College is interested in finding, encouraging and aiding all who have the gift of song or the art of making beautiful music. During the year, students were offered lessons in voice culture and piano, while a few were studying other instruments with teachers in the city. This exercise and development of talent is important if undeveloped talents are not to be lost. To be sure, we hear some "false notes" coming from the rooms and studios in which students are practicing, but is it not true that many "false notes" are sounded by young men and women in their preparation for life, and in their striving for harmony, which are later made "true"? Instruction is given not only in practical expression but also in the theory of music, for the serious music student must lay a good foundation by studying elements of music, the theory of harmony and composition..

Life is not all a matter of solo singing or playing, but a large part of it is living and working with others. Therefore among the most important activities of our college music is the work of the vocal ensembles, the choruses. No small part of a student's social training may come from his experience in chorus singing, where he must learn to give and take, to share, to use self-control in the interest of the group and its program. What a valuable experience too to memorize beautiful religious lyrics and scripture passages which have been touched by the magic pen of a music master and thus have been given added beauty and life by his beautiful me'odies and harmonies. The student at Goshen College who is interested in chorus work has the opportunity of singing in the mixed A Cappella Chorus and in either the Ladies' Chorus or the Men's Chorus. Numerous opportunities are also provided for quartet singing.

The invention of electrical transcription has made it possible to hear at Goshen College the great musical masterpieces. The courses in history of music and appreciation follow the great musical movements of the past, including the music of the early church, the a cappella chorus music of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries which lead up to the greatest of masters, Johann Sebastian Bach, the music of the Classical period with its climax in the marvelous symphonies of Beethoven, the Romantic period which culminates in Wagner, hlending into the modern musical movements. All of these contribute to the student's knowledge and appreciation and to the music life of Goshen College.

. . . Walter E. Yoder

A Cappella Chorus

THE A Cappella Chorus provides a pleasant opportunity of combining work and play and those of us who are members feel that we have had a real privilege in participating in the work of this organization. It gives to the day a tone of harmonious fellowship and serves as an outlet for the praise which is a necessary part of the life of a Christian.

The A Cappella Chorus is under the direction of Professor Walter E. Yoder and consists of the Ladies' Chorus and the Men's Chorus with the following additional voices; soprano, Caroline Smucker, Elsie Mast and Angeline Tyson; alto, Marian Messner, Carolyn Hershberger and Mary Elizabeth Lantz; bass, Ira Amstutz and Harold Miller. The chorus has enjoyed a very successful season with numerous appearances.

Not infrequently our Sunday evenings have been given over to programs of sacred music both on the campus and in churches of the neighboring communities. The outstanding program of the year, "The Crucifixion" by John Stainer, was given shortly after Easter.

A real opportunity for service is open to the chorus. May we never cease to sing "as unto the Lord" and to raise our voices in sincerest prase.

MOTTO "FORWARD"

ORWARD" was the Spirit expressed by the Roman Goddess of dawn, who according to mythology opened the gates of the East that the Sun God in his chariot might drive through the heavens.

"Forward," the motto of the Aurora Society, is characteristic of this spirit, a spirit which is possessed by its members. This means a striving, pressing onward toward a goal. This goal is the complete development of the faculties and powers of the individual. To understand this spirit one must feel it and to feel it one must live it. It has permeated the Society from the beginning and has been a source of inspiration to the members in their striving for greater achievements.

MOTTO—"We Learn To Do By Doing"

THIS motto expresses the principle which for many years has dominated the literary activities of the members of the Adelphian Society. We members of the society, both graduates and under-graduates, can testify to its truthfulness. During college life the motto furnishes an incentive for the faithful performance of literary and official duties to the society, and in later years will serve as a reminder of the values derived from an active life. The Adelphian motto has done much to make this society a valuable, active group on the campus.

MOTTO-"Esse Quam Videri"

The thought of our motto is embodied in the song of the Society in the form of a wish—"May we be that which we seem." Sincerity, in a word, is the standard which we uphold. In our literary activities, we strive toward honesty or sincerity in expression. Mannerisms, superficialities, and undue sentimentalities in speech are forms of hypocrisy which can well be avoided by cultivating an appreciation for and a participation in good expression. So in all phases of life, we wish to be sincere and thus be able to contribute something lasting and worth while to society.

"True worth is in being, not seeming, In doing, each day that goes by, Some little good—not in dreaming Of good things to do by and by."

MOTTO-"Excelsior"

"Heaven is not reached by a single bound; But we build the ladder by which we rise From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies, And we mount to its summit round by round."

In this slow but gradual ascent, the Vesperian Literary Society is moving ever upward and onward to more lofty heights. Each day some new aspiration is expressed—some new ambition is declared. The ladder is steadily built for planes still higher. Our duties, our privileges, our plans, are simply rounds by which we rise toward the summit. Still ascending, our motto stands before us as a magnet and a guide—"Excelsior."

Debating at Goshen College

A DIVISION TEAMS

During the freshman try-outs it became apparent that they had material for three teams; hence the faculty committee arranged for one debate within the freshman class and one freshman-sophemore contest. In both debates the teams used the Indiana high school question: Resolved, that the United States should adopt the essential features of the British system of radio control. The negative won the decision in each case. Paul Kendall, of Concord High School, gave Charles Kreider, Orden Miller, and Ira Amstutz the decision over Harold Schrock, Richard Yoder, and Dwight Yoder in the freshman contest. Merle Shanklin, of Goshen City High School, gave the Freshman A team, Walter Parsons, Richard Blosser, and Donald Sahli, the decision over the Sophomore team, Carl Showalter, Levi Hartzler, and Carl Kreider. Hartzler and Kreider, however, excelled in individual work.

Because this year's Indiana state question for intercollegiate debating involved a defense of Japan's policy of military aggression in the Orient, Goshen debaters preferred to work on the Mid-West question: Resolved, that the powers of the President of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy.

Four Goshen College teams were entered in the annual invitational debate tournament at Manchester College, North Manchester, Indiana: an affirmative and a negative in both the A and the B divisions. The Goshen A teams each consisted of two experienced debaters and one freshman. Each of the four teams engaged in five debates between 2:00 P. M. on Friday, February 23, and 4:00 P. M. on Saturday. All of the Goshen teams won the same number of victories except the negative A team composed of two juniors and a freshman. Considering the number of victories won and the type of competition encountered, the affirmative A team must receive credit for the best work among the four Goshen teams. This team was captained by Carl Kreider, sophomore, whose work was ably seconded by Levi Hartzler, sophomore class president, and Donald Sahli.

Standing: Charles Kreider, Orden Miller, Dwight Yoder, Richard Yoder. Seated: Ira Amstutz, Professor Umble, Walter Parsons.

B DIVISION TEAMS

The crowded nature of the tournament allowed little time for social contacts, but the Goshen debaters appreciated the opportunity of meeting outstanding young men from other Christian colleges. All of the men returned with enthusiastic reports of the benefit and pleasure derived from this intensive exercise in public speaking.

This year the Faculty Committee on Debate and Oratory decided to allow debaters who have spent two years in intercollegiate debating and who debated on an A Division team during the second year, to wear a purple coat sweater with a sixinch Goshen College "G" (purple, edged in white) and as many white arm bands as they have spent years in intercollegiate competition. Debaters entitled to this mark of distinction this year are Paton Yoder, Roy Umble, Carl Kreider, and Levi Hartzler.

Forensics

This year's students, under the able guidance of the instructor in Oral Expression, Mrs. Glen R. Miller, have attempted to uphold the high standards in Forensics which were set in previous years. The first important public event in this field was the local peace oratorical contest, held April 18. First place was granted to Roy Umble, Goshen, for his oration on the subject "A New Deal for Peace," while Rollin Krabill, Louisville, Ohio, placed second.

The reward of the one placing first was the honor of representing Goshen College in the Indiana state peace contest. This year our representative vied with representatives of other colleges at Anderson, Indiana. He brought credit to our school, being placed first by one of the judges.

The Annual Discussion Contest, April 20, was entered by five contestants. First place was awarded to Paul Zook, Goshen, on the subject, "We Jumped the Gun." Second honors went to George Holderman of La Junta, Co'orado.

The women of the Oral Expression Class, contested with a few other interested students in the Declamation Contest, May 3. This event was sponsored by Mrs. Miller and the Avon Literary Society. The latter gave a worthwhile prize to the winner, Bertie Baer, of Hagerstown, Maryland. She gave an impressive interpretation of "Release" by Genevieve Langer. Second and third honors were given to Lena Custer and Madlyn Walter, respectively.

The Student Library Association

Paton Yoder	President
Roy Umble	Vice-President
Carl Kreider	Treasurer
Barbara Coffman	Librarian

The student library association is composed of the members of the four literary societies. The purpose of the organization is to enable the students to aid in the selection and purchase of books for the college library. The book committee consists of one representative from each society and a faculty adviser, who acts as chairman. Professor D. A. Lehman has shown a splendid interest in the work in past years and acted as the chairman of the committee again this year. Other members of the committee were: Ferne Zimmerman, Vesperian; Edith Schertz, Avon; John C. Wenger, Adelphian; Rollin Krabill, Aurora. This committee chose a total of thirty-two volumes from a list of books suggested by the students and faculty. Since the association was organized, over nineteen hundred books have been added to the library. The book fund is raised by a uniform assessment of society members.

Five outstanding numbers appeared on the Lyceum Lecture Course this year. As an added feature several extension lectures were secured from Indiana University for the students. The first number on the lecture course proper was Luther Gable's talk, "Cosmic Rays." The Eureka Jubilee Singers brought a fine entertainment during Homecoming. The high point of the series was the appearance of Lorado Taft, America's foremost sculptor, whose illustrated lecture was entitled, "My Dream Museum." Charles Stelzle, well known historian, brought the fourth lecture, "Leadership in the New Democracy." An unusual, illustrated talk, "Stewing Monkey Stew," was given by Harold Fish, noted scientist and explorer in tropic South America. Among the extension lectures from Indiana University were: "Hitlerism," by Professor Benns, and "Postponing Our Own Funerals," by Dr. Rice.

Audubon Society

Green blades of grass, clear skies, tender leaves, warm sunshine and songs from bursting throats tell us that spring has loosed the binding ties of winter and we must again turn to the great out-of-doors to meet our feathered friends. The early spring mornings calls us to the woods to greet the day with every bird—the bold ones strutting about without a thought of fear, the little reticent ones slinking under grasses, leaves, and twigs to protect themselves from searching eyes.

Each Audubon remembers the hot breakfast which he ate so ravishingly after that early morning hike along the race!

However, the Audubon activities are not limited to spring. Winter, with its biting winds, challenges bird lovers to hunt rare specimens and to study the habits of familiar ones. This winter the study of winter residents became an interesting past-time for Audubons. This specific interest was aroused at a midwinter Audubon party when several members gave short talks on winter birds—their habits, homes, calls, and colors. Following the talks, the society participated in games which involved the names of birds.

Through the effort of the Audubon Society, we want to make our college campus a mecca for bird life.

The Home Economics Club of Goshen College met at the beginning of the school year to organize for activity for the coming year. The aim of this club is to emphasize the importance and position of Home Economics in the curriculum. We believe that it is more than a "fad and frill" in education and that it makes a real contribution to social understanding. To instil interest in other fields of Home Economics we invited all those qualified for membership, to a Home Economics dinner where new members were solicited.

Each month we held our regular meetings. As a historical note of interest, we dedicated one meeting to the study of Ellen Richards, to whom we owe the founding of Home Economics in America. Her ideals and aspirations challenge us in this field. Another very interesting program was a talk given by Mrs. Enss on "The Home Life of Russia," telling of her personal experiences in Russia. Other programs consisted of a study of other notable home makers and home economics leaders.

Several specific projects were taken up during the school year. Literature for the club and a magazine rack for the Home Economics rooms were purchased.

Although the "Cercle Francais" this year was not organized until the beginning of the second semester, we feel that it has done much to promote interest in the French language among the members of the club. At our first meeting, March 22, the program was centered on the coming holiday season, Easter. The evening was spent in singing French songs and playing games. At the next meeting the club was entertained at the home of Mrs. George Slate. The outstanding event of the year sponsored by the club was the annual concert by John Thut, tenor, an alumnus of Goshen College and instructor in the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago. That these annual concerts by Mr. Thut have been much appreciated is quite evident, for a number of requests were received for a return engagement. The money cleared from this concert was used as usual to purchase more French books for the library and other equipment for the French department.

The Alumni Association

The Goshen College Alumni Association, as an organization made up of the graduates of the College or any students who have attended for as much as one school year, stands for the perpetuation of the ideals which motivated its founders. The continuance of a College dedicated to the task of teaching the distinctive principles which justify the existence of the Mennonite Church and which constitute its challenge for service, is a keenly felt objective of the organization. To provide fellowship for alumni who hold those ideals dear and vital the organization provides meetings and issues a quarterly bulletin.

The organization desires to be of all possible service to the Church and the College and earnestly desires to hear from alumni who have suggestions for its greater usefulness along this line. A roster of names and addresses of members is being prepared and it is hoped that the Association may soon be in correspondence with every eligible member.

Six regional organizations have recently come into existence throughout the Middle West and it is hoped that a means for communication between these and the organization at the College may be established. Please write to us and inform us as to your objectives and plans.

Athletics At Goshen College

Goshen College does not participate in intercollegiate athletics but instead has a well developed system of intramural athletics. It is a system which is broad and varied enough to provide activity for almost every student. And the average student needs to safeguard, maintain, and even further develop himself physically, as well as along other lines. Physical exercise of some sort is necessary to do this and our intramural system offers just such a prgram.

The general aim of intramural athletics is primarily self-development. Our program calls for contests between teams and individuals, and where rivalry serves as the stimulant, good sportsmanship is called upon. And here at Goshen it is found to a marked degree. Hence we can see that character, mind, and body, which are but aspects of personality, are developed.

For those further interested in athletics, awards are offered to the most versatile and skillful men according as they are determined by the point system. A record is systematically kept throughout the year of every participant in the intramural program and as the schedule of events of each season is played, whether it be individual competition, e. g., tennis, or team competition, e. g., basketball, points are given on a winning basis. In this manner those winning awards are truly tried and must prove their mettle because competition is fast and very often close.

The highest award is a heavy sweater and letter; second and third places receive lighter sweaters and letters; the next seven awards are letters. One must say that to win an athletic award is a mark of distinction as well as a sign of achievement.

Probably the most popular sport among the students is basketball. It is the major sport of the year, but ranking near to it are tennis, baseball, and track; some of the more minor sports are volley ball, soccer, skiing, and archery. The latter was introduced early last fall and has become a favorite activity of a large group; archery, perhaps as much as any other sport, requires skill. And so one can readily see that with such a program of athletics, the student can find at least some diversion almost any time of the school year.

However, in the field of athletics as in other fields of Goshen College, it is felt that there still is a chance of improvement and various committees are now at work revising the intramural system of athletics at Goshen College.

Men's Basketball

Basketball is the leading sport at Goshen College. This year six class teams participated in the basketball program—the Freshmen and Sophomore classes were ably represented with two teams each. However, almost every team was the victim of an upset from various inspired teams. But the final analysis of both the round robin and the elimination tournament showed the Sophomore A team undisputed champions, although the race was uncertain throughout the season. The inter-society games were the high spots of the basketball calendar; the Adelphians won both games by close scores. All told, basketball for the 1933-34 season proved very successful in the program of intramural althletics.

Ski Club

The Ski Club, whose activity is at the mercy of the elements, functioned spasmodically during the last winter season. The few favorable snows were met with enthusiasm and flying skis on the Bristol Hills. With both "new addicts" and "old hands" sharing in the spills that go with each pair of skis and the snow-showers which come free with every toboggan ride, there were enjoyable outings for all, not forgetting the sparkling winter landscapes which attended these invigorating sports.

. . . Herbert Adams

Tennis

Tennis is firmly entrenched as number one sport at Goshen College. Its commanding position at the top of the list has not been jeopardized by any other sport in the athletic calendar of the institution for a score of years.

Recently, baseball, track, hasketball, and archery have made their niche in the college curriculum of sports, and have developed a modest following, but the devotees of the net and racquet far out-number them.

Tournaments, in one form or another, have been held on the local courts for many years. For several years, perpetual tournaments have been run off in the fall by both the boys and the girls. A great deal of interest is shown in the perpetual contests, and entries are plentiful.

In the spring, both boys and girls vie in elimination tournaments. Blistering matches and splotches of brilliant play always mark the semi-final and final rounds of the elimination battle.

Winners and runners-up in these tournaments are awarded honor points which are credited to them under the honor point system.

Exaggerated ping-pong, as the game of tennis is often referred to, has won many enthusiasts in Goshen College. Not a tennis day passes that the courts are not crowded with players, and dozens waiting their turn. Truly in this case, the early bird gets the court.

. . Rose Adams

Baseball

Baseball is one of the major sports at Goshen College, ranking second to tennis. It is a sport in which most of the boys are interested and in which most of them participate. The players from each class are thrown together into a whole from which a number of teams are selected by the athletic director, trying as nearly as possible to select evenly-matched teams. The two games which create the most excitement and rivalry are the inter-society games. Points are awarded to each player according to the point system.

. . . Harold Burkholder

Archery

The fascination of the twang of a bowstring and the pleasing sight of an arrow whizzing across a strip of green grass has made archery one of the most popular sports of Goshen College. Although it is one of the oldest sports of the universe, it is the latest to be introduced to our campus. An evidence of its popularity is shown in the large number who entered the fall archery tournament. It is certain that this excellent recreation will continue to held a place in the activities of the college faculty and students.

. . . John Williams

Track

At Goshen College track is rapidly gaining favor as a major sport. The meet has not yet been held, so results cannot be given at the time of this writing. A new rule, which bars anyone from participation in the meets if training is not adequate, has brought the candidates out early this year. Consequently, competition and interest will be keener and all competitors will be forced to do their best. Since two record-holding athletes are again entering the inter-class and inter-society meets, some new records may be established. The contestants will be aided by a good track which has been worked into good condition.

Long Day of Joshua." 28. "Noah's Ark" is the subject of Dr. Rimmer's lecture tonight.

29. Dr. Rimmer lectures on "The Flood." Holderman's trailer mysteriously (or otherwise) disappears.

OCTOBER

2. Boys install a new Majestic Radio in Coffman Hall social room. Seminary students organize a Graduate Circle. Adelphians, Auroras, Vesperians, and Avons initiate new members painlessly. Aurora sand Avons then initiate their literary activities with a picnic. Adelphians and Vesperians enjoy a campus Frolic.

3. Coffman Hall occupants wax chivalrous or musical, perhaps both, and serenade Kulp Hall girls.

5. Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. hold annual membership drives.

6. Men's Mixer is held in the Gym while "Sisters All" is in session in the college dining hall. Archery demonstration on campus by Kibbe.

7. Reading room clock recovers from a spell of inactivity after a serious operation on it's internal organs.

- 8. The Sunday evening lunches look normal—brown pokes, sandwiches, pickles, apples—but they're not. They aren't abnormal either; the sandwiches are "buttered.' sandwiches.
- 9. The Y. P. C. A. Cabinet banquets in alcove. M. C. Lehman addresses them on the subject, "Relation of the School to the Church."

10. Bible Study Classes begin with good attendance.

11. Classes in archery begin. By Valentine Day shooting should be quite accurate.

12. A Cappella Chorus organizes. Roy Umble is elected chief warbler.

13. Rice and curry for supper. Missionary children feel at home for once. Students and faculty send cable to mass meeting at Geneva, Switzerland, to express their feeling about disarmament.

14. Youngest student on campus undergoes severe training by being locked in a closet all alone.

15. Foreign Volunteer Bands hold membership drive.

16. Teaching of Geography Class presents a "grade-school" Columbus Day program featuring Leland Brenneman as Columbus. Miss Gamber of South America and Mrs. Sarah Lapp of India are guests in the dining hall.

17. All the flies flee the autumnal breeze and find shelter in the reading room and dormitories. While they fly, we study.

18. Professor Arthur Smith of South Bend presents a very interesting illustrated lecture on "Birds."

19. Bishop A. J. Metzler speaks at Conjoint Devotional on "Guiding Principles in the Solution of Life's Problems."

20. Professor Walter Yoder (commenting on facial expressions of boys while they sing): "If you boys don't stop looking so cross while you're singing, you'll have to screw your hats on."

21. Three cheers for the cooks! Ice cream is served for supper.

22. Prof. C. B. Blosser (in Zoology class): "And then we come to the flat worms. You havent had those yet, have you, Mr. Gerber?" Mr. Gerber: "No, but I'm going to pretty soon."

23. Girls have physical examinations. Several cases of heart trouble escape the physicians' notice.

30.

24. Benjamin Feryer, missionary to India, addresses the student body on "The Awakening of India."

26. J. Irvin Lehman speaks in Conjoint Devotional. His subject is "The Three Alls of Paul's Evangelism."

27. Kulp Hall girls open wide their doors for Open House. After visiting each room, the guests are entertained with a short program and refreshments under the roof.

The A Cappella Chorus makes its first appearance of the year at Y. P. M. 29. Gladdie Burkhart (in serious discussion about archery): I prefer $5

"heaux." Remember, it was about archery!

NOVEMBER

1. Dean Bender and Daniel Kauffman address the Mennonite Historical Society on the 250th anniversary of the Mennonites coming to Germantown.

2. Jo-Jo (really beginning to catch on to Zoology) exclaims: "A paramecium doesn't die, it juts ceases to exist.

3. Revival meetings begin, with J. D. Mininger of Kansas City as evangelist. Extra-curricular activities are suspended for the week.

12. Special consecration service in the afternoon. The evening service marks the close of the meetings.

13. Armistice Day program following chapel. Professor Smith lectures on "America Looking Forward."

14. A gentleman entering the business office inquires: "Where is Levi?" John C. replies: "He went to the Institution for the Feeble Minded." But Levi wasn't the only one to go because Dr. Hertzler took his Psychology class to the Institution in Fort Wayne to observe the types of patients and to attend a clinical lecture.

17. Bach's "Passion Chorale according to St. Matthew" is given in orthophonic concert in the Assembly Hall.

20. Dr. Luther Gable lectures on "The Cosmic Ray."

know this business of going to school to learn how to work (for the other fellow mostly) isn't such a bad idea after all. If you learn that, and learn it well, it seems to me that you needn't worry much about not being able to get along with the rest of the world."—E. Hershberger . . . Excited? Carolyn during Easter vacation ran up stairs yelling like a house a fire, "Bob's here." She refused part of the cake the girls were eating, insisting, however, that she was not excited. Incidentally, she wrapped a piece to take with her, and absent-mindedly sat on it . . . LaVerne (on the telephone to __?) "You'll just have to go over to the dormitory and get the car key. I Just can't get the garage out of the car!" . . . Helen, "I'd rather slide down Washington's monument than sew this dress." Imagine? On the other hand can you imagine Hope creating her wardrobe? She simply loves to make clothes and do fancy work! Really, she is very domesticated and has especially shown a deep interest in the "Fam'ly" . . . John C: "During the chorus trip we had the privilege of seeing many beauties and" . . . Sneak Day . . . walking home from French Club . . . Verna coming down the stairs with her notebook . . . Carolyn in strange apparel, hair down ... a dash down the kitchen stairs and out the kitchen door ... Verna and Helen's dash out the back door . . . cars waiting . . . a reunion near Nappanee . . . boys say good-night and leave for next door . . . three in a bed . . . girls wake at 5:00 . . . bus arrives at 5:30 . . . girls wait for boys (!!) . . . enroute north . . . bacon and eggs by the St. Joe . . . on to the House of David . . . John C. in a theological discussion . . . chimpanzee, monkeys, peacocks . . . Eddie on the miniature train . . . Lake Michigan . . . sand banks . . . sand in our shoes . . . a fire on the beach . . . dinner . . . toasted cheese sandwiches . . . wading , , , lying in the sun . . , evening . . . dance of the nymphs . . . steak fry . . . sun over the water , , , ball game by the way . . . homeward bound . . . ice cream in the kitchen . . . "a howling success"—(Eddie did most of the howling.) . . . One word descriptions—John C.. serious; Sam Swartz, tempestuous; LaVerne, opinionated; Bob, original; Verna, vivacious; Paul Mininger, practical; Johnny Williams, youthful; Elva, true-blue; Phebe, jolly; Marian, demure; Bertha, sincere; Elsa, genuine; Carolyn, versatile; Hope, different; Sam Thomas, diffident; Helen, mischievous; Sunshine, businesslike; Eddie, incorrigible; Zeke, jocose; Paul Zook, sportsman; Stella, friendly.

To those concerns and friends whose patronage has been an outstanding factor in the success of this Annual, we, the management of the 1934 Maple Leaf, extend our sincere appreciation ...
